

How to Boil a Frog Presents: THE PEOPLE'S VIDEO PROJECT

Greetings!

How to Boil a Frog is about what actual real people can do to stop global warming - but also how they feel about it, and what they think will get us to take action the way we need to. As part of that, we'd like to hear from you - on video! Below are questions for you to answer - please be as brief as possible - but speak from the heart. We want to hear whatever it is you really think and feel.

When done with your video (using a webcam is fine), give it a name that includes a random 6 letter code (pick letters that don't spell anything), so we'll know it's part of the Project and can identify it. Sample video title: How to Boil a Frog DJTBMG

Then upload it to www.youtube.com, according to their size & length limitations. We're using youtube for 3 reasons:

1. We want the whole world to hear what you have to say
2. We want other people to hear about the project and do their own videos
3. We can link to your video from our website!

When you're done uploading your video, email us at video@howtoboilafrog.com to let us know. Include your first name and 6 letter code so we can match everything up! Parts of some videos will appear in the movie itself; if we're going to include your video, we'll contact you first, so make sure to send us an email.

But How to Boil a Frog is way more than a movie - it's a movement! The movie is just the tip of the iceberg, and the rest of the iceberg will live online. The People's Video Project is a big part of that. We want the People's voices to be heard, so please forward this to friends, especially friends in other countries.

Thanks for being part of the Frog!
